CEDAR OPENS TONIGHT

Second Local Century Of Dramatic Art to Be Ushered in by Darnell

The grand opening of the Cedar theatre on Broad street tonight will usher in the second century of entertainment in Nevada City.

Ralph Achey, resident manager, announced the doors will open at 6:30 o'clock and a short dedication program will be held at 7 o'clock followed by the presentation of the late film, "Everybody Does It," starring Linda Darnell and Paul Douglas.

Officials of the T. and D. Jr. Enterprises, operators of the theatre and city dignitaries will participate in the program, which will be emceed by Jack Cartwright.

Mayor Arthur B. Innis is scheduled to cut a ribbon stretched across the lobby and open the theatre to the public.

Achey announced there will be no increase in prices for opening night. Standard prices to prevail until further notice are loges, 80c; general, 60c; students, 50c; children, 20c. Matinees will be held Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

Following Innis' severance of the restraining ribbon Cartwright is scheduled to introduce Verne Taylor, general manager; Fred Naify, district manager; Jack Keegan, Nevada district manager; Achey, resident manager, and Edward Tophan, superintendent of construction.

Keegan will introduce and pay tribute to William V. Tamblyn and George H. Calanan, former operators of the Broadway theatre.

Achey announced as house staff: Vern Sandow, projectionist; Ernest Young, assistant projectionist; Alma Marsh, cashier; Richard Atkinson, doorman; Adeline Veale, head usherette; Lorene Ward, Ardell Eddy and Mayme Filler, usherettes; and Blanche Silva, candy bar attendant.

The ghosts of countless great names of the past century of the drama will no doubt haunt the ancient building tonight as it begins the second hundred years.

Emma Nevada, Edwin Booth, Mark Twain, James Stark H. A. Warwick and many lesser lights trod the stage of early day Nevada City theatres.

The present building rose from the ashes of the last great fire of 1863 and construction started March 15, 1865. The assassination of President Abraham Lincoln delayed construction as the entire city took time out to mourn the Civil war leader but construction finally started again and the exterior was completed June 29, 1865. The company ran out of funds to furnish the interior.

A great ball given that night by the Nevada Quadrille band at which entrance was $5 a head and $1,000 was raised to finish the job. The Transcript of that day said the theatre was decorated with flags and evergreen and 96 gas burners gave as brilliant light as the noon-day sun. Three hundred persons danced until dawn.

The interior was completed and the first presentation, a burlesque and comedy opened the show palace Sept. 12, 1865.

Dan Setchell and the Worrell Sisters—Sophie, Irene and little Jennie—were the performers.

The first presentation was "Ici on Parle Francaise." Stage Manager W. Stephenson led community singing of "Bless Me, Father, Let Me Go." The performers completed the evening with two burlesque pieces, "John Jones of the War Office," and "The Invisible Prince."

Admission was a dollar.

T. Maguire was manager, J. S. Fallon was treasurer, and F. Schreiner was orchestra leader.

John Cashin, partner of the butcher firm of Cashin & Davis, was president of the company that built the theatre in 1865. James Monro, another butcher, and W. C. Stiles of the Stiles Planing Mill, were officers of the company.

The earliest entertainment of Nevada City was no doubt rough sports, fisticuffs and an occasional tent show. Fandango halls were reportedly never as popular here as in the southern mines.

RALPH ACHEY
Resident Manager

Hamlet Davis provided a reading room on the second floor of his two story building on Broad and Pine during the summer of 1850. Dramatic hall was opened here in 1851 and several dramatic troupes performed there.

The Jenny Lind theatre was built in the fall of 1851 at the foot of Main street but only lasted 15 weeks befort it washed down Deer creek during a flash flood.

Edwin Booth appeared in Nevada City in 1852-53 but failed to please local audiences.

L. P. Frisbie erected Concert hall on Main street in 1853. The building was destroyed by fire in June, 1856, with Edwin Booth slated to open the night of the fire.

Frisbie and a partner named Bain built the Nevada theatre on the site of the Concert hall and it opened Dec. 1, 1856, with H. A. Warwick starring in "The Merchant of Venice."

The theatre was destroyed in the May, 1858, fire.

The Metropolitan theatre appeared four months later near the Union hotel and four years was Nevada City's only theatre. The Metropolitan was destroyed in the city's last great fire of November, 1863.

Following its construction at the end of the Civil war the Nevada theatre was the showhouse of the city for decades.

In 1907 a group of 12 local men led by William V. Tamblyn and George H. Calanan formed a company, took over the old Hennessey livery stable on the site of the Alpha Hardware store, made it over into a picture house and called it the Broadway. For several years they showed two-reelers. With the growth of the motion picture industry and the inauguration of "story" pictures the company would rent the Nevada for big pictures.

Tamblyn recalls that one of the first big films was "The Spoilers" starring William Farnum which appeared about 1912.

In 1923 the group purchased the Nevada, remodeled and operated it until 1937 when it was sold to the T. & D. Jr. Enterprises.

Volume 22, No. 66 NEVADA CITY (Nevada County) CALIFORNIA Friday, December 9, 1949

The Cedar theatre, pictured above, will open this evening with the snipping of a ribbon barrier by Mayor A. B. Innis, to usher in the second century of dramatic art to Nevada City.

TRINITY RECTOR HITS WRANGLING I N COMMUNITY

Rev. Max L. Christensen, rector of Trinity Episcopal church, invited to speak before Friday's meeting of the Nevada City Elementary Parent-Teachers association, stood up before the group and opened his remarks with, "I see my subject is Thanksgiving Just Past and Christmas Is Ahead. How can a man speak of such a subject?" Then he calmly dropped a bombshell.

Rev. Christensen criticised the association's attempt to ban certain motion pictures and comic books, and sharply scored wrangling and strife that has recently gripped the board of supervisors, the city council and school board.

He urged the organization to follow a constructive plan and to place emphasis on programs that build beneficial forces, rather than conduct campaigns of destruction.

He roundly scored parents with the observation that "Children are a home responsibility and the responsibility should not be shoved to church and-school."

Rev. Christensen charged the local school policy allows children to obtain diplomas that are not earned and laid some of that blame on parents by over shielding and demanding promotion of their children.

Lloyd Geist, principal of the elementary school, briefly outlined present teaching and grading methods under which report cards carry marks which are an indication of a child's effort in view of his ability.

Geist pointed out that a student of moderate intelligence who made a great effort could receive a higher grade than a brilliant student who loafed.

A round table discussion developed the difference of this modern method as compared to the outdated practice under which a highly intelligent child could loaf his way from one class to another and graduate with honors. The speaker pointed out that modern school methods placed a new burden on teachers who must consider each child individually and mark them according to effort and capability.

More than eighty parents and teachers attended the meeting presided over by Mrs. Arnold Jackson, president of the association.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS SCHEDULED AT TUESDAY MEETING OF CHAMBER

Election of officers will be the principal matter of business at Tuesday evening's meeting of the Nevada City Chamber of Commerce in city hall.

Candidates nominated at the November meeting were president: I. C. Bell, Stan Halls, Ray Spickelmier, Milt Anderson, Ray Strange, Mosco Smart and William J. Wasley.

Three have been nominated for vice president: I. C. Bell, George Halstead and Angus Fox.

Also up for possible discussion and study will be the proposed prison labor camp which was discussed at Tuesday's meeting of the board of directors.

Directors voiced the opinion the Nevada county board of supervisors acted hastily in opposing the proposal of the department of corrections establishing a camp in this county.

The directors instructed Secretary H. F. Sofge to write Congressman Clair Engle and Senator Sheridan Downey urging the construction of a federal building in Nevada City.

Sofge was also instructed to write a letter to the main offices of Western Union telegraph company protesting proposed closing of the local office.

DEPUTIES STOP ESCAPE TRY BY JAIL INMATES

Alert action by the staff of the Nevada county sheriff's office following a grapevine tip nipped a planned break for freedom by seven prisoners in the county jail Friday evening.

An inspection at 7 o'clock revealed the men had pried a large steel plate from the wall by using an iron bar from one of the cell bunks.

Sheriff Richard W. Hoskins reported the plate had been spot welded on the wall. Hoskins said that had the prisoners been successful in getting from the cell they could possibly have made their way from the courthouse building through a skylight.

The sheriff's office declined to name the prisoner who gave the tip or name the prisoners involved in the break attempt.

TWO-CENT STAMP IS REQUIRED ON UNSEALED CHRISTMAS GREETINGS

William J. Wasley, Nevada City postmaster, warned this morning that 1½-cent stamps are obsolete for single postage use in the U. S., and as a result cannot be used to prepay postage on unsealed Christmas cards.

Wasley recommends use of the first class rate to avoid disappointment, obtain best service including free forwarding if addressee has moved, or return if undeliverable and use of personal messages on card.

Wasley said the third class rate on unsealed printed greeting cards is now two cents.

FRANK TIPPS ASKS FOR ACCOUNTING OF MOTOR FIRM BOOKS; RECEIVER

Frank Tipps, Grass Valley, yesterday filed a complaint against M. R. Bickham, asking for accounting after dissolution of a partnership, injunction pendente lite, and appointment of receiver.

The two men entered into partnership Jan. 1, 1947, to operate a Grass Valley motor firm under the name of Partridge Motors.

A dissolution agreement was made Aug. 6, 1949.

In the complaint filed yesterday Tipps states the partnership employed Charles Hillyer as a bookkeeper. Tipps charges Hillyer and the defendant entered into a conspiracy whereby Hillyer would make false entries in the partnership's books.

A certified public accountaint was employed to audit the books and on Aug. 6 announced books were in such condition he was unable to complete an audit.

Tipps stated on dissolution date he was paid $1,000 cash by defendant and took delivery of a 1949 Hudson.

The plaintiff declared Bickham refuses to make an accounting of the partnership.

The plaintiff asks agreement of Aug. 6, 1949, be declared null and void and cancell bill of sale in escrow; that an accounting be made by Bickham; that property of business Tipps states has assets of $50,000, be sold and surplus be divided between plaintiff and defendant; and that a receiver for the business be appointed.

PLEADS GUILTY

E. R. Schroeder entered plea of guilty in superior court on five counts of issuing bad checks. Motion for probation was made by Lynne Kelly, court-appointed attorney. Superior Judge James Snell set Monday for passing of sentence.

CITY COUNCIL OKEYS NEW FIRE EQUIPMENT

City council last night approved expenditure of $25,000 for a new fire engine and the installation of additional fire hydrants and alarm boxes.

Funds to finance the additional equipment will be financed by a $25,000 addition to the proposed sewage bond issue expected to exceed $100,000.

Fire Chief Ted Sigourney said the additional facilities would bring a sharp reduction in the city's basic fire insurance rates.

DO YOUR PART AND SHOP AT HOME

One of the most effective arguments for a free enterprise economy is the very success of our way of life.

Consider the position of Nevada City and Grass Valley and the surrounding trade area—which is really a single economic unit. We produce beef, lumber and mineral products in the main, which have market values in distant areas. In return we receive cash with which to purchase the goods and services needed to run our farms, our mills and our homes.

Into our community economic system have come merchants making it easier for us to procure the needed goods which we consider necessary to maintain a wholesome American standard of living. Professional men, service people in all fields, sales people offering trinkets or treasures—all are in our midst and able to spend their lives here because there is enough wealth coming into the market place to sustain them.

This editorial, of course, is another effort to induce you to shop at home. It's a simple theme and one which you can, if you wish, shrug off on the basis that we write it merely to stand in good with the merchants and business people upon whom we, in turn, depend for revenues in our printing and publishing business.

Our success, is, certainly, of concern to us. We like to think our printed products and our advertising space serve as needed outside sales agents for small businesses not equipped to canvass the entire territory each week with a person-to-person message of services and goods offered.

But we are also concerned about the community's entirety. As Roy Zimmerman prospers and enlarges, his business may hire another wage earner. As John Sbaffi adds to his business he may find it possible to enlarge his store. As Downey Clinch finds his sales curve rising he may find it wise to increase his staff of employees. With these evidences of growth will come many not immediately seen. Bigger insurance coverage, more banking business, more profits put back into the business and more wages taken out to repaint a home or buy a new kitchen range or build new homes for the new people engaged to work in local businesses.

New services and more goods are offered on Broad and Commercial streets this year than were offered last year. Your place in this scheme of things is the important key. As you show your faith in your community, your community will prosper. There are admitted advantages in shopping the big city markets, but the advantages are surface benefits rather than real benefits.

The several shopping trips a year you make to Sacramento or San Francisco, coupled with those of your neighbors, add up to large amounts of money leaving local channels of trade. No doubt some of these outside expenditures are for goods and services not available here, but many many dollars go out of town for items which could be purchased at home.

We would that it were possible to keep tabs for a year on the thousands of dollars going out of town which could have purchased as much value at the local market. No one has these figures, but it would be interesting to weigh such a huge sum against the numbers of family paychecks the amount could mean if the dollars had stayed at home.

All of us like Sacramento. It's a fine city. But our homes and our well being depend upon the continued prosperity of Nevada City and Nevada county.

Do your part. Shop at home.

MONOPOLY AND SERVICE RARELY JOIN

We don't know how the freight service was in to Nevada City before we came here in February but apparently it wasn't of the best, based on the fact that Applegate Drayage company's bid for a common carrier permit between here and Sacramento won the endorsement of the two communities chambers of commerce.

We do know that while the Applegate application was before the public utilities commission its threat of competition to the sole-permitted Pacific Motor Transport gave us excellent service during that period.

Now that the threat of competition has been removed to PMT apparently that excellent service is a thing of the past. The very week that the commission denied the Applegate application PMT's service from a 24-hour schedule changed to this for the first shipment we had out of Sacramento since the denial of its competitor's application:

Shipment picked up in Sacramento Nov. 18 (according to shipper's statement and stamped date on package inclosure) shipment waybilled out of Sacramento Nov. 28. Shipment received in our office Dec. 2. (Four days from Sacramento. Did it come by ox cart?)

In the meantime we draw the wrath and cancellations of printing orders from our customers while being held up by such freight service.

Monopoly and service rarely go hand in hand.

Just Wonderin'

I'm wonderin' about thinkers now
And also about thinking;
To those who make of thought an art,
A toast I'm duly drinking.
May all their efforts bring to light
Bright jewels of the mind,
And through vexations of the day
A lighted pathway find.

It seems as we try to comprehend the various problems of the day, that what this world needs most of all, is straight and constructive thinking. When one listens to the wild clamor of contending voices shouting in defense of this and that, charging and counter charging, one feels that in reality there is a dearth of thinking—real thinking in almost every quarter.

What are the qualifications of a thinker? Truly they are varied and many. To be able to think things through, one must understand both sides of a question. We find this to be a fact when we hear so many expressing thoughts which are in defense of some favorite theory, and are based upon prejudice, bigotry, intolerance and preconceived notions.

I once heard a famous art critic say that "no one should presume to criticize a work of art unless he could first of all find good in it." Much of the criticism, much of the thought expressions which we hear are based upon superficial knowledge blended with a superb contempt for all views save one's own. The affliction of one-sidedness enfeebles even many of our ablest public speakers, and for that reason we should not follow them too unquestioningly.

With Christmas just around the corner, we might with profit, take time to examine the machinery of our own thought processes and find if they are in good working order. Christmas is a time for clarification of the mind; almost automatically we find some of our unworthy thoughts fading out and more genial and tolerant thoughts taking their places.

It is a good season for thinking things through to their ultimate conclusions; a good time for taking the lamp of wisdom and holding it high, so that its rays may fall upon the inner implications of thought and reveal them for what they are, good or bad, wise or foolish.

One may say, "I am not a thinker, I leave all that to those who have time for study and introspection. "Oh, yes you are a thinker; you begin to think the moment you wake up in the morning and you keep at it until you fall asleep at night. With all the multiplicity of thoughts expended day by day, how much of our thinking is straight, how much of it comes from false premises, from prejudice, from misunderstanding and lack of perspective? Let's think up the answers to these questions and turn the white light of self knowledge upon the processes of thought which we employ.

If thought is an art, why are there so many amateurs? If we cannot all be professional thinkers, we may at least do a modicum of really intelligent and worthy thinking and in the process add our bit to the calm and reasonable conclusions at which we must arrive if the world is to become a better place in which to live and if the Christmas spirit is to come into and abide in our human hearts for aye.

Who knows, the other fellow's view point may well be worth a cursory inspection. If we get wisdom and understanding, we shall begin practicing the art of thought and achieving results which may amaze us. Think brother, think; have fun, keep your sense of humor, but take time out each day for a season of thinking that is thinking. Surely that will not be time lost.

ADELINE MERRIAM CONNER.

Discontent and griping have done more to advance this world of ours than anything else. People were not satisfied to walk—hence horseback travel and ultimately the automobile and airplane. And women do not have any love for scrubbing clothes by hand, so nowadays we have washing machines. People were not happy with candles, so in their stead today we have electric lights.

Coffee, tea, whiskey. There is no stimulant that can give you the lift of the stars in a little boy's eyes when he comes home from school and holds up a paper with a big red A on it.

Don't assume because she has a sad expression she loved and lost. She may have won the guy.

No one can lead a balanced existence without a few well-chosen enemies.

Some fellows say clinging vines can be ramblers too.

No matter what happens, there is someone who knew it would.

Adolescence is when they begin to question answers.

To hear some roosters crow you'd think the sun was rising especially for them.

More husbands than socks are usually darned at women's sewing circle.

It's funny how a tree will stand in one place for years and then suddenly jump in front of a woman driver.

Tales of Nevada County From Long Ago to Now

H. P. DAVIS

BOOKS

THE NORTHERN MINES, by Edward Kinyon.

In the San Francisco Chronicle, Sunday, Dec. 4, Joseph Henry Jackson, guide, philosopher and friend to book lovers everywhere pays well merited tribute to our "Ed" Kinyon, "long a newspaperman and sound historian."

Of Mr. Kinyon's new book, "The Northern Mines," Jackson says, "It is a series of factual narratives of the counties of Nevada, Placer, Sierra, Yuba . . . (it) comments on hydraulic mining, on such curiosities as the Kentucky Ridge slave colony and much more."

"Readers," says Jackson, "of this sort of material will find Mr. Kinyon's book a treasurehouse of odds and ends of stories and facts bearing on California's first century in the region of which he writes."

Copies of Mr. Kinyon's book may be obtained at the Union office at the published price, $3.00.

GREAT WOMEN OF CALIFORNIA—EMMA NEVADA. A recent and valued addition to my library is a most interesting pamphlet by Rockell D. Hunt entitled "Great Women of California."

In this 28-page booklet, a reprint from the Historical Society of Southern California Quarterly, Dr. Hunt, in the charming style which has endeared him to Nevada City audiences, tells of the notable women of this state since the early days of gold, and something of outstanding women of the pre-American era.

Knowing as he has many of the women of whom he here writes, and deeply versed as he is, in California tradition, Dr. Hunt has, here made a valuable contribution to our knowledge of the lives and achievements of great women of California.

Of Emma Nevada, the famous singer who born at Alpha and who sang first in public at the Baptist church in Nevada City, Dr. Hunt says, "Not only California but the American west lays claim to Emma Nevada, 'Little Wixy, the Comstock nightingale.' Born near Nevada City in California she spent her childhood days in the small mining town of Austin in the state of Nevada. Thus the name she assumed is a compliment to both her native county and her childhood state."

Dr. Hunt tell us that after graduating from Mills college, with a group of young ladies she visited Europe and while there was fortunate enough to meet and gain the interest of Madame Marchesi "who heard this young girl sing and praised her voice with enthusiasm."

It was not long after this meeting that Emma Nevada gained recognition as queen of the operatic stage. Multitudes, says Dr. Hunt, were charmed by her soprano voice "with great range, marvelous flexibility, flute-like purity and wondrous sweetness."

Emma Nevada, after her European and eastern triumphs returned about fifty years ago for one brief visit to Nevada City. She sang at the Nevada theatre and after the performance attended a reception in her honor held on the then recently completed front veranda of the National Hotel. Among the songs she sang on this occasion was "Listen to the Mocking Bird," a song she had made famous in Europe and America.

THE ELEPHANT AS THEY SAW IT was briefly reviewed by this writer in last week's issue of The Nugget. In the December "Notes" from the California Historical Society we find this book referred to as "a delightful pamphlet entitled "The Elephant As They Saw It." "This," says the compiler of "Notes," "is a profusely illustrated history of mining in the early days and is well worth more than the 75 cents for which it may be obtained from the publishers."

"The Elephant As They Saw It" may be obtained by sending 75 cents plus three percent sales tax, to the California Division of Mines, Ferry Building, San Francisco, or it may be purchased at a slightly advanced price at one of several stores in this city.

NEVADA COUNTY HISTORICAL SOCIETY'S BULLETIN. In the December Bulletin of the Nevada County Historical Society Audrey Welselsky contributes a most interesting sketch of the Ridge telephone line, one of, if not the first long distance telephone line in this state. This line, says Mrs. Welselsky, was built in the late 70's by three of the great hydraulic mining companies then operating on the San Juan ridge. Its primary purpose was to fill the need for means of instant communication between the reservoirs and higher ditch camps up in Sierra county, and ditch tenders along the great canal system, and the offices at North San Juan and French Corral.

"When hydraulic mining was stopped by the anti-debris law of 1884 (the famous Sawyer decision) a new use was found for the ridge telephone lines." Here Mrs. Welselsky explains that after this decision which prohibited the deposit of tailings in running streams of this area, "slikers" or "spies," as they were called, were sent into this district to report on any unlawful operations. On the first intimation of the presence of such investigators in the neighborhood employees of the telephone company, or of the hydraulic operators, promptly telephoned the miners that "the slikers are coming" and gave the miners time to shut off the water and remove or camouflage all signs of unlawful activities.

MRS. HEFELFINGER TO PREXY HISTORICAL SOCIETY NEXT YEAR

Mrs. Isabel Hefelfinger, Nevada City, was elected president of the Nevada County Historical Society by a mail vote announced at a Monday evening meeting of the organization in Hennessey elementary school.

Others officers selected by the mail balloting were Elmer Stevens, Nevada City, vice president; Mrs. Bernice Penrose, Nevada City, secretary-treasurer; George Hallock, Grass Valley; Mrs. Amelia Cunningham, North San Juan; and Robert Paine, Nevada City, board of directors.

Mrs. Hefelfinger will be the third president of the organization in its six years of existence. Stevens, retiring president ,and Mrs. Doris Foley served previously. Mrs. Junies Chase, Grass Valley is retiring secretary.

Highlight of the entertainment for the meeting was the presentation of "California in Story, Song and Dance" by the Nuggeteers, folk and square dancing organization of Nevada county.

Paine served as narrator and sketched the background of the incidents of each sequence of the state's history—Spanish, English, Russian, Mexican, Irish, Chinese and American.

Vocal selections for the program were presented by Miss Glenda Moore, Miss Eileen Burke, William Tobiassen and Harald Hansen. Mrs. Mae Raddue and Dick Hales were accompanists.

Miss Dorothy Dyke directed the Nuggeteers in their dance routines.

Retiring President Stevens reported the society's museum here had 3,000 visitors the past season. He also said the society had placed 76 historical markers, conducted a historical tour of the San Juan ridge, and had increased membership to 400.

LOMA RICA AIRPORT URGED FOR COUNTY

Loma Rica airport on the estate of Errol MacBoyle was suggested as an ideal location for a county airport to the board of supervisors Friday by Gilbert Cramer, Grass Valley mayor.

Cramer urged the board to take steps for immediate purchase of the 58-acre site between Nevada City and Grass Valley.

Cramer said two commercial groups are studying the possibilities of purchasing the field. He pointed out the main runway is 5,190 feet long and could inexpensively be extended 4,000 feet. The cross runway is more than 2,000 feet long. The field has hangars, field lights and communication facilities.

Cramer called both the Nevada City municipal airport and Gilmore field near Grass Valley inadequate.

The supervisors took the suggestion under advisement and study for the next session Wednesday, Dec. 21.

In a separate action the board voted to set up an aeronautics fund to make possible application by the county for approximately $8,000 in unclaimed airplane gas tax refunds.

RED CROSS BUDGET NEEDS SET AT $2,750

Budget needs for 1950 program of Nevada City chapter, American Red Cross, was set at $2,750 at Wednesday evening meeting of the unit in city hall. Chairman Kief D. Melberg presided.

Melberg was named to attend conference of Pacific area chapter chairmen in San Francisco Monday.

Attending the meeting were Mrs. Hal Draper, home service; Miss Ruth Hutchison, treasurer; Mrs. Mae Crane, first aid and water safety; and Miss Ernestine Eilerman, secretary.

NEWS OF NEVADA CITY HIGH SCHOOL

Chorus News

The chorus headed by William Tobiassen already has two programs set for the chorus besides the Christmas program. They are Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

Good Fruitcake

Mrs. Newby's cooking class made fruitcake Thursday and they were sure good. Even the boys' cooking class made fruitcake. When her Home Making I class asked her when they could start cooking Mrs. Newby said they might be able to make some Christmas candy as soon as they finish making the clothes for the doll at the Save-More variety. So all the girls are really excited.

Assembly

Another in the series of national assemblies was presented at the high school Monday. Richard Carradine, a well known Shakespearean actor, gave a splendid performance. He gave scenes from Hamlet and many other well known Shakespearean plays. The assembly was enjoyed by everyone.

Christmas Program

The Christmas program given at the high school yearly is well underway. The program this year is to be one of the best to be given in a long time. Mr. Conway of the elementary school has written an outstanding play to be presened by the elementary students. The high school chorus, directed by William Tobiassen, has come up with a lot of new tunes such as "Shepherds Awake," "Christmas Eve," "Sleep of the Child Jesus," and an old time favorite "Oh, Come, All Ye Faithful," and many others. The high school chorus this year consists of 74 students and is one of the best the high school has ever had.

Doll on Display

The doll donated by Emmet Gallagher of the Save-More Variety Store, to the Home Making I class at high school is now on display in the store window with many of its clothes with it. However there will be many more clothes to come. But the tickets are on sale at the Save-More or from any of the Home Making I students. The Home Making students have been doing a great job so I would like to mention some of their names: Betty Lind, Jo Ann Dillard, Frieda Harbour, Darleen Crowley, Margery Mendoca, Violet Schwartz, Koreen Buster, Rosie Kelly, Carole Freeman, Shirley Burger, Margi Dugan, Ina Jane Davis, June Hall, Bonnie T., Caroline Keith, and a new girl, Margaret Nutt, who got right in and really helped out and last but not least, the one who is responsible for the girls doing such a good job. All the credit goes to Mrs. Margaret Newby, the Home Making teacher.

$50 FOR VENISON

Solaro said the city streets will be the brightest and most colorfully decorated in his memory.

The bells at intersections are made of fibre glass, and the red stars of aluminum and can be used many times, Solaro said.

JOSEPH H. JACKSON CALLS KINYON BOOK A TREASURE HOUSE

In the book section of the San Francisco Sunday Chronicle, Joseph Henry Jackson has the following remarks to say about Edward Kinyon's book, "The Northern Mines," published recently by the Grass Valley Union:

"From Grass Valley comes a book, 'The Northern Mines,' published there for its author, Edward Kinyon, long a newspaperman and a sound local historian. It is a series of factual narratives of the counties of Nevada, Placer, Sierra, Yuba and portions of Plumas and Butte. As is pointed out in the introduction by Wayland D. Hand, editor of the Journal of American Folklore, Mr. Kinyon has an inquiring mind and the patience and capacity to run down the truth. The book is a pleasant miscellany ranging from tales of outlaws (including the egregious Henry Plummer, later a bad man in Montana), sheriffs, such figures of the early day stages as Edwin Booth and Lola Montez, comment on hydraulic mining, on such curiosities as the Kentucky ridge slave colony, and much more. Readers who are interested in this sort of material will find Mr. Kinyon's book a treasure-house of odds and ends of stories and facts bearing on California's first century in the region of which he writes. There is a small folding map of the Northern Mines tipped inside the back cover."

SNELL NAMES WIDOW EXECUTRIX OF ERROL MACBOYLE ESTATE

Mrs. Glendolyn MacBoyle, widow of Errol MacBoyle, was appointed executrix of the estate Friday by Nevada County Superior Court Judge James Snell in the first action of settlement of the mining man's estate probated at $1,500,000.

Judge Snell named Mrs. MacBoyle executrix following a three hour protest by Attorney Jerome Sapiro, of Oakland, representing three cousins of the deceased.

In admitting the will to probate Judge Snell allowed the widow $4,000 per month for family maintenance.

The cousins, Alan MacBoyle of Los Angeles, Dorothy MacBoyle Wolflin of El Monte, and Mildred Snook Grimes of San Francisco, sought to obstruct settlement of the will and contended the widow had improperly disposed of $16,000 worth of Oakland properties which had been willed to the tric. The widow was granted power of attorney by MacBoyle in 1944 shortly after he suffered a stroke.

A major portion of the estate goes to the widow.

Mrs. Mary Jane Nelson, 86, died Wednesday afternoon after a brief illness. The body is at Holmes Funeral Home where arrangements are being made to ship the remains to Brigham, Utah, for final rites.

A native of Denmark, Mrs. Nelson came to the U. S. as a small girl and made her home in northern Utah. She had spent the past several winters in Nevada City at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Violet Chapman, who will accompany the body to Utah for interment.

She is also survived by three other children, Mrs. Dora Watkins, Logan, Utah; Mrs. Helen Pike and Reed Nelson, both of Salt Lake City, Utah; five grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

A competent diet can be made almost entirely of vegetables, if milk and eggs are added.

"God, the Preserver of Man" is the subject of the Christian Science lesson-sermon for Sunday with the golden text taken from Isaiah. "As birds flying, so will the Lord of hosts defend Jerusalem; defending also he will deliver it; and passing over he will preserve it" (31:5).
The following citations are among those comprising the sermon:
Matthew: "Then Jesus called his disciples unto him, and said, I have compassion on the multitude, because they continue with me now three days and have nothing to eat: and I will not send them away fasting, lest they faint in the way. And he took the seven loaves and the fishes, and gave thanks, and brake them, and gave to his disciples, and the disciples to the multitude. And they did all eat, and were filled: and they took up of the broken meat that was left seven baskets full" (15:32, 36, 37).
"Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Spirit, God, gathers unformed thoughts into their proper channels, and unfolds these thoughts, even as He opens the petals of a holy purpose in order that the purpose may appear" (p. 506).

GRASS VALLEY ALUMNI HOLD NEVADA CITY TO SCORELESS TIE SUNDAY

Alumni teams of Grass Valley and Nevada City high school battled to a scoreless gridiron game Sunday afternoon in Hennessey field, Grass Valley, before about 1,000 satisfied fans.
Nevada City had the edge in yardage and first downs but was never able to capitalize on several scoring opportunities.
Lack of condition told on the players and also caused several fumbles. Platoon replacements were a godsend to many of the players enabling them to enjoy a break and a cigarette on the bench.
McGivern of Nevada City returned a punt for long yardage behind blocking of Clark, Baker and Barry, but was unable to break away for a score and appeared breathlessly grateful as a Grass Valley gridder pushed him out of bounds after approximately a 50 yard run.
Local alumni participating included Ed McGivern, Butch Ruth, Bob Wulf, George Agostino, Joe Tappero, Dave Tobiassen, Bob Baker, Bub Tobiassen, Bob Bonbonner, Stan Jones, Sam Pello, Warren Smith, Windy Clark, Joe Widulf, Bob Walker, Ken Worthley, Bill Tobiassen, Joe Bertino, Keith Marsh, Luther Marsh, Ben Barry, Chet Brady, Chet Burns, Dale Berger and Bill Roberts.

REALTORS PROTEST TAX ASSESSING BY "REVENUE STAMPS"

Officials of the Nevada county real estate board urged the board of supervisors to adopt an equitable tax assessment method to supplant a system they described "as revenue stamp taxation without appraisal."
Appearing before the board on Friday, spokesmen for the real estate men were William Stinson, president of the group, William Esterly and John Looser, all of Grass Valley.
The group made written and verbal presentation of what they called inequitable evaluation of properties throughout the county:
They cited a 440 acre area that had a 1948 tax bill of $170 but following sale of the property the taxes were raised to $460.
Another instances the realtors said a 480 acre plot was taxed at $60. Forty acres of the area was sold and the tax bill on the 40 acres was boosted to $387.
Frank Rowe, presiding over the board of supervisors, told the protestants the board admitted inequalities of the present evaluations but that the county is in the midst of a project of new plat maps and field surveys to correct the situation.

HALF-BAKED ROLLS NEW PRODUCT OF PEASE'S BAKERY

Pease's Bakery, located at 748 Zion street, near the edge of the city on the highway to Grass Valley, is marketing a new development in the baking industry—"Brown 'n Serve Rolls," a half-baked pastry.
Pease states the idea developed in Florida by an accident. A baker there was a member of a volunteer fire department and had just started a batch of regular rolls baking when the summons to a fire called him away. Snatching the rolls from the oven the baker was gone for several hours. Upon his return he surveyed the "spoiled" rolls. Loath to throw them away he tried browning the rolls for his own use—and they were delicious. And a new product was born.
Pease said baking from seven to 10 minutes prepares the rolls for consumption. Kept in a refrigerator the rolls are usable for about two weeks, in a deep freeze, they will last indefinitely.

Jed Adams, Yuba City back, won a berth on the first team, and his team-mate Randy Dahling, won honorable mention as a guard. They were the only Sierra Foothill league teams represented on the squad.
